Final information about our response to the bus collision in Croydon, following which we treated 20 patients and took 18 of them to hospital.

NHS
London Ambulance Service
 NHS Trust

Graham Norton, Assistant Director of Operations said:

"We were called just before 12.20pm to reports of a collision involving a bus on Station Road in Croydon.

"We sent a large number of staff to the scene. This included eight ambulance crews, a motorcycle paramedic, members of our Hazardous Area Response team, a number of officers and London's Air Ambulance.

"We treated a total of 20 patients at the scene, and 18 of these were then taken to hospital.

"They had mostly suffered minor injuries, but one patient was seriously injured and taken to hospital with the doctor from the air ambulance on board the ambulance."

WEATHER & FIRE POTENTIAL

RIVERSIDE, CALIFORNIA

Weather Discussion:

Another round of strong Santa Ana winds will occur today through Wednesday morning. The winds will be strongest today and tonight over Ventura and Los Angeles County before the strongest winds shift southward to San Diego County Monday and Tuesday. Very, very low relative humidity will occur over most of Southern California the next 3 days. RH recovery will be poor the next few nights. Onshore flow will bring shifting winds and slightly cooler weather back during the second half of the week.

- Northeast winds of 25 to 40 mph with gusts to 60 mph in Ventura and portions of Los Angeles County developing this afternoon, lasting into Monday morning. Look for similar winds speeds in San Diego County Monday afternoon into Tuesday across San Diego County. Winds of 20-30 mph with gusts to 45 mph will occur in the Inland Empire and Orange County tonight through Tuesday night. In addition, northeast winds of 20-25 mph with gusts to 50 mph will be possible in favored Sierra Foothill valleys this evening into Monday. All offshore winds should cease Wednesday morning.
- Widespread single digit humidity along with very poor humidity recovery at night will continue through Wednesday.
- There will be little change in temperature through the end of next week, with upper 40s and 50s across the mountains and 70s to low 80s in the valleys of Southern California.

- Strong offshore winds along with very low humidity will generate a high likelihood of large fires across most Southern California Sunday through Tuesday night.
 - Extreme fire behavior will be likely on current fires and new ignitions in windy areas. Long range spotting and extreme rates of spread can be expected.
 - Dead fuel moisture is close to record low readings over most areas below 6,000 feet. Fire will grow rapidly through all fuel types, both live and dead, though Tuesday night.
 - Fires will burn actively at night due to poor humidity recovery.
 - Light, but erratic winds may occur Wednesday as offshore flow transitions back to onshore flow.
 - Expect heavy initial attack the next 3 days. A very large portion of the district will be under a high risk, which will lead to extensive resource demand through Wednesday.
- For additional fuel and weather information, including the Santa Ana Wildfire Threat Index, please visit:
